

Creative Brief:

Simmons University Admissions x Studio 5 Student Driven Marketing Agency

1. Background / Context

Each year, excited students apply to several colleges in hope of finding their unique path through higher education. Simmons University's Office of Admissions

2. Business / Communication Challenge

Studio 5 aims to bridge the gap between soon to be college students and Simmons University as an institution. We plan to highlight the amenities in a visually appealing way to encourage people to attend, utilize its resources and claim their spot at Simmons.

3. Target Audience

Studio 5 set out to create materials for an acceptance packet that would grab the attention of both prospective students, as well as their parents.

4. Single-Minded Proposition (SMP)

If our audience remembers one thing, it should be what Simmons University has to uniquely offer.

5. Support / Reasons to Believe

As a student driven marketing agency, we are familiar with the aspects of applying for colleges and the decision making process.

6. Desired Response

The goal for the acceptance package redesign is to excite prospective students and encourage them to attend Simmons University.

7. Mandatories

Included will be a redesign of the Simmons acceptance packet pages, bubble mailer, and stickers for new students. There will be an incorporation of some previous elements along with a selection of new, custom art designed by the Studio 5 creative team members.
